Three Keys When USC Has The Ball

- 1. Keep Kedon clean. UCLA gets a pass rush from different places. USC's OL has to keep Slovis upright.
- 2. Run the ball. It might not need to be for 200+ yards, but USC needs to get some kind of ground game.
- 3. No turnovers. UCLA has been just okay at forcing turnovers, but those can swing a rivalry game.

Three Keys When UCLA Has The Ball

- 1. Contain the QB. Dorian Thompson-Robinson is a major threat on the run, either designed or scrambling.
- 2. Find Demetric Felton. Felton is UCLA's top rushing threat, but he's also dangerous as a receiver.
- 3. Stop the run. UCLA has to run to be successful. The Bruins are averaging 227 yards per game, 16th overall.
